ANNUAL REPORT

FY 2014

Our 2014 Year in Review

A Message from the DoveLewis CEO

Over the past 41 years of DoveLewis's history we have seen tremendous changes in veterinary medicine as well as throughout the animal-loving community. With the vital resources we offer through our hospital and community programs, we are committed to evolving in order to meet the growing needs of our community, clients and patients.

That is why we spent months revisiting our mission and vision to ensure they reflect the organization we are today at our core and who we want to be in the future. With goals to have a more expansive reach for the important work we do at DoveLewis, we felt it was time for an update. Many elements of our previous mission and vision remain, but they now embrace our aspirations to accomplish even more. On the back cover of this annual report is our new mission and vision, which will guide us as an organization for many more years to come.

As we take hold of new opportunities aligning with our mission, our many community programs continue to flourish. Each program is so important offering support for the many different needs of those we serve. Specifically, two of our programs hit significant milestones this past year.

We were proud to offer our first full year of the Portland Area Canine Therapy Teams (PACTT) Program in partnership with Guide Dogs for the Blind. This unique program focuses on the therapeutic results of the human-animal bond. PACTT made 337 visits to a variety of facilities helping men, women and children with animal assisted therapy. With 33 current teams, this program continues to grow and increasingly receives interest from many local facilities and media. But beyond the numbers, going on visits with our teams and seeing first-hand the powerful response they spark has been truly inspiring.

We continue to grow our Education & Outreach Program striving to be global education and training leaders in our field of emergency and specialty veterinary medicine. We truly believe that we have an obligation, especially as an accredited teaching hospital, to help educate those in our profession and ultimately improve the quality of medicine available to the animal-loving community. For the first time, we offered a Spring CE Conference, which will become an annual event due to the positive feedback from veterinary professionals. Additionally, our video-based veterinary educational website, On the Floor at Dove, experienced remarkable growth reaching over 11,000 current members.

At the core of DoveLewis, we continue to provide exceptional emergency and critical care to our patients when they need it most. 13,369 total patients came to our state-of-the-art hospital through the year, a 7% increase from the previous year. Our experienced medical team continues to grow ensuring these animals receive the compassionate care they deserve.

Reflecting on the past year, I am proud of the growth we have experienced. We are sincerely grateful for the support from the community and the trust our clients put in us.

DoveLewis is the Northwest's nonprofit, 24-hour emergency animal hospital. Since 1973, our compassionate and skilled veterinary staff has treated more than 500,000 animals. In the past year alone, DoveLewis cared for over 13,000 patients during the time when they needed us most.

As a nonprofit organization, we depend on the generosity of our supporters who enable us to maintain a fully staffed, state-of-the-art facility available to the community 24 hours per day, every single day of the year. DoveLewis is proud to provide several donor-funded programs to the community, including one of the region's largest volunteer-based animal blood banks, a nationally recognized pet loss support program, animal-assisted therapy made possible through a partnership with Guide Dogs for the Blind, stabilizing care for lost, stray, wild and abused animals, and financial assistance for qualifying low-income families.

Thanks to these vital programs, stray, lost and abused animals in need of emergency veterinary care have somewhere to turn. Low-income families are able to help their pets heal. Dogs and cats depending on life-saving transfusions get the blood they need to survive. Adults and children of all walks of life know the companionship of a therapy dog. And veterinary professionals worldwide receive education that empowers them to be the best for their patients.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS: Velvet Assistance Fund & Charlie Fund

This year, the Velvet Assistance Fund granted $137,543 in financial assistance to qualifying low-income families facing veterinary emergencies. The need for this type of support often surpasses the assistance funds we have available. Because this is a vital resource for our community, we do not take the stewardship of this fund lightly and hope to be able to help even more families in the future.

“We noticed our cat Alice’s eye was irritated and not getting better. We were unable to afford emergency veterinary care, as we were experiencing financial hardship. DoveLewis took care of our little girl even though we did not have money, and we are so thankful for that. The staff was caring and loving and saw her promptly.”

-Pamela Cooper

Thanks to the Charlie Fund, abused animals receive the care and protection they desperately need. We regret that the Charlie Fund must exist at all, but we’re grateful we can cover the treatment costs to have skilled, kindhearted veterinary staff members handle these delicate situations.

In June, a one-year-old male, Retriever mix named Bently was brought to DoveLewis after someone had maliciously wrapped a bungee cord around his neck. The cord had become embedded in his neck and had to be surgically removed. Bently was extremely brave and made a full recovery. The cost of his care was completely covered by the DoveLewis Charlie Fund for abused animals.

Community Programs

STRAY ANIMAL & WILDLIFE PROGRAM

This year, 1,306 sick and injured stray and wildlife animals (including lost pets) were brought to our hospital, thanks to the county shelters, good Samaritans, police officers and firefighters who found them. All donations to the Stray Animal & Wildlife Program make a difference to the rescues we see. We work with Audubon Society of Portland by regularly caring for injured wildlife when the organization is closed on evenings and weekends and by transferring animals to the organization for continued care when it’s open in the morning. In an effort to locate every sick or injured stray’s owner, we scan for a microchips and post photos on our lost and found pet database online.

In June, Janna and Robbie Russell of East Wind Animal Service, which helps provide night services for Multnomah County Animal Services (MCAS), received a call from good Samaritans who heard a kitten vocalize when they started their car.

“When we arrived the car owner had taken off the wheel of the car and we were able to see the kitten caught by her paw in the brakes,” said Janna Russell, who also fostered the kitten temporarily. “Robbie unbolted the brakes to release the pressure on the paw and I was able to pull her leg out. We then transported her to DoveLewis for immediate care prior to [MCAS] opening that morning.”

The eight-week-old kitten suffered a severe degloving injury to her right forelimb. Veterinarians at DoveLewis provided initial emergency care for the kitten before she was transferred to MCAS, where her leg was later amputated. She was later named ‘Dove’ and adopted by a local family.

PET LOSS SUPPORT PROGRAM

Since 1986, the DoveLewis Pet Loss Support Program has been helping those who are grieving the loss of their four-legged family members. The program offers free pet loss support groups, memorial art therapy workshops and an annual Service of Remembrance event. Additionally, each client having to euthanize their companion animal at DoveLewis is given the My Pet Remembrance Journal to assist in the healing process and honor the human-animal bond. Led by Enid Traisman, MSW, CT, CFS, these unique gatherings and services are made possible by donors and DoveLewis’s community partner Dignified Pet Services.

“[When we lost our dog Eddie] our grief was beyond our understanding or ability to cope. Enid Traisman was caring and compassionate, listened to us, and helped us realize we were not crazy or alone in our feelings; she gave us tools to deal with the pain. She is very much a hero in our eyes.”

-Debra Gil

“I was so distraught after my dog Hannah passed. All the services Dove Lewis offers to those of us grieving our furry family members are helpful and healing. Sharing what’s in my heart with others who understand the painful journey that is grief has been the best medicine for me.”

BLOOD BANK PROGRAM

DoveLewis's Blood Bank is one of the largest volunteer-based blood banks in the nation. Each year, it provides enough blood and plasma for nearly 500 transfusions for dogs and cats in Oregon. We wouldn't be able to continue to run this invaluable program without the help of donors, revenue generated from the sale of blood products, and of course, our volunteer superheroes, who are nothing short of real life-savers.

Auggie Doggie and his canine pal were hanging out in the driveway of his Cannon Beach home when the mischievous duo suddenly got a wild hair and took off toward a forested area near Highway 101. Before his owners could get to him, Auggie Doggie was struck by a car. Having been to DoveLewis twice before, his family knew exactly where to go. Auggie Doggie spent six days in the ICU, underwent surgery for a fractured jaw and femur, required intensive management for pain and swelling associated with other fractures and contused lungs, and received a blood transfusion made possible thanks to volunteer blood donor dog Rema Falconer.

Rema Falconer

"I think DoveLewis is amazing. The people are caring and compassionate to pets and the humans who own them. I was so thankful DoveLewis kept Auggie Doggie alive. Now he's back to his old self— happy, healthy, strong and quite the rascal!"

EDUCATION & OUTREACH PROGRAM

At DoveLewis we are exceedingly proud of our strong history and commitment to our community. DoveLewis provides education to the local animal-loving community while striving to be a global education and training leader in the field of emergency and specialty veterinary medicine.

As a teaching hospital we believe we have an obligation to help educate those in our profession and ultimately improve the quality of medicine available to pet owners. One of the ways we fulfill our teaching mission and give back to the veterinary community is through On the Floor @Dove (www.atdove.org). This online veterinary training and education platform has changed the way veterinary professionals are learning and improving patient care.

By selling memberships to the site, we give all types of veterinary professionals (including students) access to high-quality procedure videos featuring real cases handled by DoveLewis medical experts. The revenue from the sales goes directly back to help fund our local community programs. The consistent feedback we receive confirms we are fulfilling a vital industry need while enhancing veterinary medicine in our own region and across the globe.

"We have been using [On the Floor @Dove] since last fall and absolutely LOVE IT!! We saw a very large increase in the competency pass rates this year. When I asked the students where they "saw that" (something they were all doing); their response was, "I watched Dove Lewis"!!! It has been such a great tool outside of the classroom for the students that we are going to incorporate it into the lab curriculum on a weekly basis. Thank you again for such a great (much needed) product!"

A Community of Giving

DEVELOPMENT

DoveLewis relies on the critical support from the community for the financial stability of our donor-funded community programs. Community support comes in many forms with the most significant contributions yielding from individual monthly donations, event attendance, workplace giving, gifts from foundations, and long-range, planned giving.

BUILDING FUND

With the help of generous donations from our community supporters, we are making strides on reducing our mortgage debt. In fiscal year 2014 we recorded building fund donations and pledges of $127,450, resulting in a mortgage balance of $3,103,606 for our state-of-the-art hospital.

The Dr. Richard Werner Legacy Society

DoveLewis is grateful for people in our legacy society who share a belief in the power of estate planning and want their legacy to grow and support the human-animal bond for generations to come. The Dr. Richard Werner Legacy Society members understand and believe in our mission and generously aid in its preservation. This year we recorded $776,648 in bequests leaving a remarkable impact on DoveLewis' capacity to grow, develop and remain vital for future generations of animals and humans.

College Collaborations

Our externship and internship programs give veterinary students and graduates the unique chance to gain clinical experience and learn more about our service to the community.

30 Externs

In cooperation with veterinary colleges nationally and internationally, DoveLewis hosts veterinary externs. Externs are fourth-year veterinary students who have a strong interest in emergency and critical care and spend, on average, two weeks in rotation at the hospital. DoveLewis also works in partnership with Portland Community College to offer technician externship opportunities.

4 Interns

DoveLewis interns are doctors of veterinary medicine (DVM) from around the world. They spend a full year at DoveLewis working in our veterinary emergency and critical care hospital. DoveLewis interns are trained and mentored by experienced boarded-certified specialists and criticalists.

EVENTS

DoveLewis hosts signature events each year to raise funds for our community programs and hospital as well as connect with supporters in fun and memorable ways. This year, we held DoveAdore, a gala, auction and fashion show featuring humans and animals, and Dogtoberfest, Portland's largest dog wash. These and other outreach events raised a total of $430,916 in event income, sponsorships and donations.
