He is my grumpy old man pug! He likes to bark at strangers, lounge on the sofa and stay close to me at all times. He was recently diagnosed with diabetes (with loving care of folks at DoveLewis) and is recovering amazingly well. I love him so much and he is such a wonderful addition to my life.

Noodle, a 2-year-old Shih-tzu adopted from a rescue with a host of health problems- itchy skin and heartworm positive but he is the light of my life. We have worked on his ailments, and I can say he is heartworm free and less itchy- thanks to DoveLewis! I feel blessed for him to be in my life and love him so much.

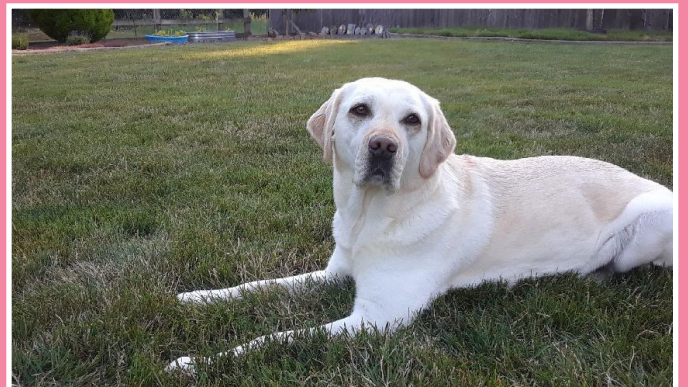

Olive, I was so fortunate to be matched with you at the Guide Dog Fall Luncheon over 11 years ago! I was estatic to meet you, your sleepy eyes, long ears, mellow yellow puppy. You have brought me so much joy every day! The many great walks, trips to the beach, all the many outings. Thank you, Ms. OLIVE. - Love, Sandy

Sniffing Out a Good Book

Three teams visit the Tigard Library for Dogs and Tales Read to the Dog program. Linda and Kelsey, Dionne and Mia, Colleen and Houdini. Here are a couple anecdotes from their visit:

About 6 months ago, a 4-year-old observed kids reading to dogs at the library. He wanted to participate but his mom told him he needed to learn to read first. Fast forward 6 months and the little guy learned how to read. Yesterday was his first time at Dogs and Tales. He read to Kelsey but also said hello to Mia and Houdini. He asked Colleen if she knew what his favorite song was to sing to dogs. He then proceeded to sing Twinkle Twinkle Little Star to Houdini. Cutest thing ever! He had such a soft, sweet voice, and was very gentle.

A mom and her little girl, maybe kindergarten age, chose to read to Kelsey. The mom introduced herself to Linda and told her that this was their first time at Dogs and Tales and that she and her daughter were both very afraid of dogs. Linda did a nice job of keeping Kelsey close while the little girl read. The mom added that she'd been attacked by a dog when she was a little girl in India and explained how her mind/body react even though she knows it's not logical that every dog is scary. She didn't want her little girl to absorb her fear and miss out on the enjoyment of dogs and thought this setting would be a safe way for them to have exposure. The little girl was able to pet Kelsey before she left.
